Snow . . .

Typical of winters in Southern Missouri, snow brings added beauty to our campus. Snow softens straight bold lines and blends all into an intriguing snow-scape.

Governor Warren E. Hearnes

Formal dedication of Missouri Southern College's Fine Arts Building, Library, Science and Mathematics Building, and Hearnes Hall gave area residents the opportunity to visit our campus. Guided tours of all buildings and grounds were conducted by students and proved to be a highlight of the afternoon. Governor of Missouri, Warren Hearnes was guest of honor. Missouri Southern set out on her road of progress.

... It's all in the game ...

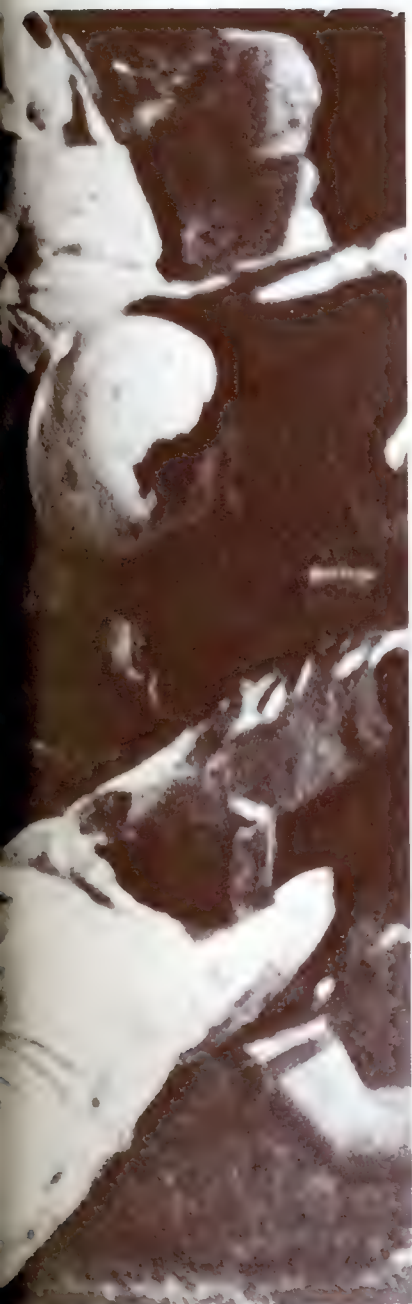

There is not an easy way to play football. The game is designed to provide a series of demanding tests for man's skill, courage and dedication. On the small violent plain of the football field there is no place to hide or rest, no way to avoid the battle. Play after play it comes to the competitors with a swift and sudden truthfulness.

There is a deep respect among the players for each other's ability. It is a respect proven in the white heat of competition.

Clubs Organize in Constitutional Manner

According to the student body constitution, a group wishing to become an approved campus organization must proceed along a prescribed route. First a petition bearing names of prospective members along with a tentative constitution is presented to the Student Senate. (1) It must be approved both by Senate and college officials (2) before the "ok" is given (3) and the club holds its first official meeting to elect officers. (4) In this manner the KBK became an approved organization the spring semester of 1968.

Crossroads Staff "Aims to Please!"

The Crossroads staff has undertaken the biggest job to date. A sprawling new campus hampered communications and posed numerous problems to be solved. The staff did its best, and before you now is the product of hundreds of hours' preparation. We hope we have done our job to your satisfaction. Below are Tom Holman, Mrs. Ellen Glenn, and Arthur Boles, sponsors. At the Crossroads Banquet held in the late spring Arthur Boles was presented a gift and a unanimous vote of thanks from this year's staff for thirty-two years of willing service as a Crossroads sponsor. Mr. Boles retired following the 1968 spring semester.

Staff members not present when the picture was made include Karen Faul, Mack Hailey, Steve Hokanson, and Bill Rowland.

Math Club Sponsors Annual Contest

The Math Club gives the opportunity to explore specialized areas of mathematics seldom encountered in regular courses. Students interested in all fields of mathematics find the Math Club a challenging organization. Each year the club sponsors a contest which is open to all students of the college. A difficult problem is presented for solution—judgement is the basis of neatness, originality, and accuracy.

The "go ahead" was given in the summer of '67 and the College Players rallied forces ready to convert the cavernous old barn into the quaint campus theatre. With the arrival of fall and new students the group welcomed freshman enthusiasm and returning workers. # The Chart

Guided by Mr. Murray, The CHART editors and staff courageously faced the added hours of sweat required to increase to eighteen issues. Several times they had a finished product of not the usual six pages but eight pages. Frequent publication made printing more student news a new policy.

Terry Brown's "Snickelfritz" added a popular regular feature to the newspaper. Student body response indicated hearty approval of the new policy and publication schedule.

With addition of a journalism minor to the curriculum, The Chart has been able to draw upon added student talent for its editorial section. Students in the feature writing courses contributed much to The Chart and will continue into press photography, radio and television news, and editing courses to be offered next year.

Faculty

subdivision editor, judy stockberger

The primary purpose of the Division of Business and Economics is to develop initially and improve continuously the caliber of instruction, programs, and courses which will lead to the achievement of the following objectives:

- (1) Preparing individuals for positions of responsibility and leadership in industry and government,
- (2) Preparing individuals to teach business subjects on the secondary level,
- (3) Preparing individuals to enter the business community, obtain initial employment and perform satisfactorily on the operative level in an organization.

The Division of Business and Economics Challenges New Leaders

Looking back it may be seen that the faculty successfully launched the third year of Baccalaureate Degree programs and maintained the traditional high quality of the Associate Degree and Certificate programs. No major curriculum changes were made. However, course titles and descriptions were altered somewhat. Advanced Income Tax, Internship in Public Accounting, and Directed Studies in Business and Economics were added to the curriculum.

The Division of Business and Economics has plans in the following areas: (1) Graduate placement, (2) Data processing courses applicable to baccalaureate programs, (3) Library development, (4) Revision and development of Associate Degree and Certificate programs, and (5) Updating of office machines and secretarial science equipment.

- (1) L. Keith Larimore, Chairman
- (2) Daniel Stengel, Robert Hunter, Dorothy Stone
- (3) James DeNeen, Clarence Cowan, Leslie Deman
- (4) James Perrett, Lorine Miner, Edith Compton

Division of Education, Psychology, and Physical Education Creates New Program

- (1) Dr. O. L. Schuster, Sam Starkey
- (2) Venus Yount, Douglas Landrith,

- (3) Frank Davis
- (4) Dr. Charles Niess, Chairman
- (5) Dr. Lloyd Dryer, Merrell Junkins
- (6) Woody Mason, Leland Easterday,
Dr. Clark Gulliams

The Division of Education, Psychology, and Physical Education plays a vital role in training teachers. Although all divisions have a share in teacher education, this division is directly responsible to education majors, physical education majors, and psychology majors.

This is the only division which screens its candidates. To graduates Missouri Southern State College has the power to grant a life teaching certificate—a solemn responsibility. Major emphasis is on student involvement. Newest innovations such as team teaching and video taping have been used. According to Doctor Neiss, Missouri Southern's is an experimental program in teacher education and is being closely observed by others interested in modernizing their teacher education program.

Division of Humanities and Fine Arts Encourages Self-Expression

The Division of Humanities and Fine Arts includes those disciplines in which the student becomes aware of mankind's great thought and art. Through the study of art, journalism, language, literature, music, philosophy, speech, and drama, the student enlarges his capacity to express himself and at the same time develops his ability to appreciate creative effort.

- (5) Enid Blevins,
Lora Todd,
Marie Bickett
- (6) Grace Mitchell

In addition to curricular functions, the division influences the cultural life of the college and community. The musical and dramatic performing organizations offer opportunities for participation to all qualified students. They serve a valuable outlet for aesthetic self-expression. Displays of works by students and faculty in the Art Gallery and exhibits sponsored by Spiva Art Center, housed in the Gallery, stimulate the artistic community.

- (2) Delbert Johnson, William Taylor, Oliver Sovereign
- (3) Darrell Dishman, Arthur Boles

Division of Science and Mathematics

The Division of Science and Mathematics provides experiences whereby a student can better interpret the universe in which he lives. It offers courses in mathematics, biology, chemistry, and physics.

In 1968 the math faculty organized a math league involving eleven of the area's high schools. Each school competed with a nine member team for top score. Three scholarships were given to the highest scoring individuals.

Employs Scientific Method

- (1) Rochelle Boehning, Pamela Kendrick, Larry Martin
- (2) Paul Jensen, Martha McCormick
- (3) V. L. Anderson
- (4) John Cragin, Marion Sloan, Arthur Strobel
- (5) James Altendorf, Chairman

Many changes have taken place in 1968. Three teachers have been added to the faculty, and four more are anticipated for 1969. A great improvement was the addition of more laboratories and equipment.

The division's faculty has published over a dozen articles in scientific journals this year.

- (1) David Bingman, Dr. Orty Orr
- (2) Vernon D. Baiamonte, Charles Gosch
- (3) Harrison Kash
- (4) Dr. Sam Gibson, Wayne Habermehl

- (1) Harry Gockel, Chairman
- (2) Conrad Gubera, John Eli

The Division of Social Sciences purpose is to provide the student with skills, attitudes, and understanding necessary to give his life direction and meaning, and to acquire interests that he may pursue for the pleasure of learning.

The division's faculty sponsors major student organizations, including Crossroads, Student Senate, CIRUNA, and Young Republicans.

In 1968 the Department of Sociology offered a major for the first time.

The division of semi-professional and technical education provides the training required in specialized occupational areas. Its curricula reflects both the needs of the employers in the mid-west and the interests of the students majoring in these fields.

The faculty of this division has the full responsibility for developing the programs. Many problems such as use of temporary facilities and delays in receiving equipment are being overcome.

The division launches its first graduating classes in 1968. These graduates set a standard of excellence of which future classes may be proud.

Library Expands Facilities

Students find new facilities as microfilm readers, listening lab, curriculum library, larger collections of both books and periodicals and greatly expanded study area are much in evidence at Spiva Library. Four librarians have been added: a cataloger, a circulations librarian, periodicals librarian, and an orders librarian.

Increased use of the library is evident. Circulation often approaches 250 books a day and during morning rush hours students literally fill the library.

Index

The Crossroads staff felt it important that each student has a permanent, complete record of his classmates. Therefore the following is an index to the entire student body of Missouri Southern College for the 1967-68 academic year. Page numbers following students' names indicate pictures appear in the Crossroads on corresponding pages.
